PERFECTING THE IDEAL

DETAILS

Participants split in different groups so that each person could focus on what they were best in. Pointing on quality is something many teams in a working environment lack, but they kept it immediately in mind, and could put attention to the small but important aspects as well.

3 full days of planning.
Ideas into paper, promotion and action

A woman with dark hair, wearing a white t-shirt, is leaning over a table in an outdoor cafe setting. She appears to be working, possibly a barista or server. The table in front of her has various items including a stack of white mugs, a stack of white plates, a blue carton of milk, and several bottles. In the background, other people are visible, including a woman in a white t-shirt and a blue patterned skirt walking towards the camera. The setting is outdoors under a white tent structure with a blue backdrop. The overall atmosphere is casual and pleasant.

THE MENU

TASTES FROM DIFFERENT COUNTRIES

The participants came up with the idea of creating (fusion) dishes to recall the thematic of an international youth exchange: different countries coming together and showing to each other their culture. Some dishes were for example named after a nationality, others were a typical dish from a country, other instead were a mix of more countries "meeting" each other, just like the 45 participants coming from Macedonia, Italy, Portugal, Greece, Bulgaria, France, Slovenia and The Netherlands did.

TOGETHER

Communication was very important to maintain cooperation and a stable flow between the kitchen and the service. These are things that were worked during the exchange itself through activities.

DISCOVER THE DIFFERENT TASTES

Participants put in action their communication and cooking skills and created a very professional outdoor restaurant atmosphere. Guests were strangers invited in the streets of Ommen or throughout social media, and they were very pleased with the atmosphere, the dishes and the service. The level of customers' satisfaction was so high that guests felt guilty not to pay for those delicious meals and in total participants received 300 euro of tips.

Each group stuck to their role and managers made sure that communication amongst them would flow in a way that customers would not be bothered with their dinners. All in all a very successful end product for this special exchange, the What's Cooking group and exchange was a pleasure to work with.
